

History & Honour Roll –

Australian Secondary Schools Teams Championship

History

The Australian Secondary Schools Teams Championship was first played in 1989. Each Team comprises a team of three players from the one secondary school. The winning school from each state contests an all-expenses paid National Final conducted by Golf Australia.

Up to and including 2001, the winning Australian School contested the International Final of the Team Championship for Schools, played in the United Kingdom each year. Australian teams were successful on two occasions – Kooralbyn International School at St Andrews in 1999 and Kelvin Grove State High School at Sunningdale in 1995.

The International Final of the Team Championship for Schools was cancelled after the 2001 event, and between 2002 and 2006 the winner and runner-up from the Australian School Teams Championship contested the Trans Tasman Schools Teams Challenge, against two schools from New Zealand.

Previous to 2010, the event was played as a scratch competition. In 2010 the event changed to a Stableford competition to encourage greater participation.

The event was cancelled after the 2012 championship.
